GIFT COLLECTION

Christmas shopping is special here at InOut Atelier, when you purchase a gift for your friend and love ones, you are really giving them an ultimate gift. A gift, that is close to your heart.

"WHAT MAKES THIS

CHRISTMOSS

SO SPECIAL?"

Here at InOut Atelier, we think it's the little moments.
Finding the perfect curated present for your loved ones, seeing the smiles on their faces knowing they received a gift specially made and personalised for them.

This holiday season is made up of endless memories that weave themselves together to create the perfect magical Christmas for you. It's a recipe – and this year, we want to make sure you have the ingredients to cook up the best Christmas ever!

For the very first time, we're putting together a spread of Christmas joy via our Christmoss catalogue. That's right! CHRIST-MOSS! Because we are after all, biophilic conscious. We understand when you purchase a gift for your friend and love ones, you truly want to give them an ultimate gift. A gift, that is not only close to your heart, but also a gift that takes care of their wellbeing.

With the pandemic nowhere near over, many of us are forced to work from home and confine within the walls of our dwelling space.

We do not travel outdoor as much as we used to, and are denied the opportunity to engage in nature. And that is detrimental to our mental wellness and productivity.

Research has found that having nature around us alleviate stress and improves our mood and productivity, and it is vital for us to be constantly surrounded by biophilic elements and for our case, GREENS!

Therefore, rest assured when you're doing Christmoss shopping with us. Your recipients are not merely receiving a gift, they are receiving a gift that is close to your heart and a gift that is making a beneficial impact on their wellbeing. We invite you to go through our catalogue, explore how the products can complement your home and the impact they can make this Christmas!

EDITOR'S NOTE

THE CHRISTMOSS DINING

If you're anything like us, you love to eat, spend time with your friends and family, and geek out on all things design. That also means your happy place is probably the dining room. And that's why we are starting out strong with the dining room!

Remember, our dining room is a multi-functional space - it's where we eat, entertain, converge with family and friends for meals, and sometimes even work. To make sure it's in tip-top shape for Christmas this year, we rounded up some of what we have to offer, to create a cosy and warm Christmas.

Your dining room should serve as the hub for family meals, a get together meal is a must have during Christmas season.

BIG MOSS BOWL

Complete the dining landscape with a series of terrariums. Start the table setting by focusing around a centrepiece terrarium. One that is big enough to be seen from the corner of your room. But small enough not to obstruct your tableware and utensils.

If you're looking for a decent size terrarium, our Big Moss Bowl might be the one for you. They make a sizable terrarium providing a 360 degree view round the table.

Flowers are a great way to bring new life to any space.
Using flowers as Christmas decor will bring joy and happiness to your space.

Pairing fresh moss and evergreens with thick petaled flowers like peonies and anemones will make a perfect floral arrangement.

“Christmas is tenderness for the past,
courage for the present, hope for the future.”

- AGNES M. PAHRO

BEER ANYONE?

Pair the centrepiece terrarium with one or two other smaller size terrarium that continues the design. Place them adjacent to the big one and around the floral arrangement, creating juxtaposition and some height difference. It will help to create some layering in your overall table décor setting.

FAE SERIES (S,M,L)

Lastly, complete the overall table décor setting with even small size terrariums. For this case, we are using a similar but smaller size terrarium jar to keep the design setting a little more consistent. They are not meant to rob the attention from the bigger terrarium. But to compliment and blend in subtly among the table décor.

TAKE A FEW STEPS BACK

Take a few steps back and into the corners of the room, look at your masterpiece from different angles. See them from the lens of your guest. And feel free to ask for opinions from your love one, this is after all, a season of sharing and bonding.

And who knows, you may have a totally new and fresh perspective. Don't forget to find joy in these little moments with them during this festive season!

MERRY UP YOUR BEDROOM

Your bedroom is where you rest and recharge after a long, hectic day, but there's no reason why the Christmas vibe should end outside your bedroom door.

Out of every space in a home, your bedroom is without a doubt the most personal. Even though it's your private space that will be seen by far fewer people than your living room and dining room. It still deserves a great deal of attention.

PRESERVED MOSS FRAME

This is a botanical art that can fit into most indoor spaces. The preserved pole mosses are soft to the touches, and nestled close together to create depth, creating a three-dimensional illusion to the wall.

Carefully handpicked from the forest of Northern Western Europe and shipped over to Singapore.

Our preserved mosses are 100% naturally preserved individually by our dedicated team to ensure control quality.

A DAILY REMINDER

Well, you definitely do not need a massive Christmas tree in your bedroom. But how about a massive preserve moss frame that not only greens up your indoor space, but also serves as a daily reminder of the quote which you live by on a daily basis? Or a wedding vow you share with your spouse on your very magical day?

They are 100% customisable, removable and changeable to suits the different mood and occasion. Apart from that, they also have very good acoustic properties and are maintenance free. Thus, not having natural daylight in your room is no excuse to not have any greenery in them!

THE RECIPE FOR FESTIVE

Whether you're baking delicious sweets for the holidays or shopping at your favorite bakery, everything looks better if you take a moment to display your sweet treats in a festive way, so today we're sharing some tips and tricks for creating a beautiful dessert table in just a few minutes.

One of the keys to creating a beautiful dessert display is to use plates and stands of different heights to add layers to your table. In this case, we wanted a bit of an enchanted forest look, so we used driftwood, wooden crates, foliage and cake stands to create some hierarchy in different areas of the table.

Mosses and Christmas décor lay around and below the plates to give emphasis to your sweet treats.

Our terrariums mimic the inspiration we take from nature, such as an open field or a mountainous terrain, and the materials used in our terrarium is a reflection of that.

The landscape within is usually sculpted with live pole mosses to create undulating terrains. These live pole mosses require minimal daylight to do well and the enclosed jars ensure humidity builds up over time.

MOSS FRAMES

When it comes to decorating your walls this Christmas, choosing the most fitting types of photo display frames for your space can seem a bit overwhelming. Between varying frame finishes, display styles, and materials, how do you know what will look best in your home?

That's where we come in. You may have some photos or images that are closer to heart and would love to have them up on your selves or wall. But too much of those and it becomes a walk down memory lane. Try mixing them up with a little bit of visual texture.

Our preserve moss frames comes in two different variation. We have the mini preserve moss frame, where we use preserved reindeer moss, coupled with a laser engrave ply design of your choice. Or a smaller version of a preserved moss frame we personally designed for your very own indoor space. Own a piece of landscape vertically on your wall, next to your wedding photos.

Explore what makes each one unique, and share our favourite ways to display them. Consider your walls covered.

THE CHRISTMOSS YARD

Using natural décor such as evergreens and ferns are amazing way to style your balcony for this Christmas. They can be added in garlands and wreaths in arrangements that can be highlighted with lights, bells and berries.

Accent the layout with some wooden slab, ornaments and other stuff. Christmas tree's leaves are also nice to decorate your balcony, put them on shelves, table and even incorporate into garlands. They emit a very nice Christmas scent and up your Christmas ambience.

We also did a huge wall plaque for wall decoration to up the Christmas vibe. Nothing is more literal than having Christmas spelled right out for you.

CHRISTMOSS FOR OFFICE

Before we get into the actual office holiday decorating ideas, we got a couple of stats to share.

According to research, 41% of offices have “fully embraced the Christmas spirit”, 21% are “feeling festive, but more can be done”. And then we’ve also got 38% who qualify as “workplace Grinchies.” Wait what??

So which category does your office belong to? If you’re still wondering whether it’s worth the investment to spruce up your workplace for the holidays to boost morale, you definitely should! Nobody wants grumpy employees and co-workers except for the Scrooge, and we know you’re no Scrooge, because then you won’t have gotten so far into our Christmoss catalogue, right?

OWN A PIECE OF LAND

If you're always dreaming of owning a piece of land but finding it to be a ridiculously far-fetched idea. You might want to consider owning a piece of lawn from us instead.

Hang red and white combination Christmas décor and make your office get into the mood of celebration.

OFICIO STUDIO MADRID

In the heart of Madrid, in the middle of the arid landscape known as El Retiro del Arte, stands a building that has been there for centuries. Neglected for years, it has received a new lease on life from Melisa Carranza and David Iglesias. The two now live and work there together, accompanied by their dog and surrounded by a striking assortment of plants.

LIGHT UP THE OFFICE

Covering the cubicles in the office with fairy lights will completely change the environment. You can use different methods to put the lights around. Also, you can make a Christmas tree out of lights. This idea will spread festive cheer at your workplace.

Adding some magical fairy lights between your co-workers's desktop in the office will completely change the ambient. You can use different methods to put the lights around to create different type of effect as you please.

You may consider placing some nicer looking jars on the office desk with some dry flowers or fresh baby breadth to decorate the corner a little.
